

Maggie May

Rod Stewart

D Wake up Maggie, I think I got something to say to you
D It's late September and I really should be back at school
C I know I keep you amused but I feel I'm being used
Am Oh Maggie, I couldn't have tried any more
Am You led me away from home just to save you from being alone
Am You stole my heart and that's what really hurt

D The morning sun when it's in your face really shows your age
D But that don't worry me none in my eyes you're everything
C I laughed at all of your jokes, my love you didn't need to coax
Am Oh Maggie, I couldn't have tried any more
Am You led me away from home, just to save you from being alone
Am You stole my soul and that's a pain I can do without

D All I needed was a friend to lend a guiding hand
D But you turned into a lover and mother what a lover, you wore me out
C All you did was wreck my head and in the morning kick me in the head
Am Oh Maggie, I couldn't have tried any more
Am You led me away from home 'cause you didn't want to be alone
Am You stole my heart, I couldn't leave you if I tried

D I suppose I could collect my books and get on back to school
D Or steal my daddy's cue and make a living out of playing pool
C Or find myself a rock and roll band, that needs a helpin' hand
Am Oh Maggie, I wish that I'd never seen your face Am You made a first-class fool out of me, but I'm as blind as a fool can be
Am You stole my heart but I love you anyway

G Maggie, I wish I'd, never seen your face
G I'll get on back, home, one of these days
G Ooooooooooooooooooooooooooooooooooooo

Written by Rod Stewart and Martin Quittenon and recorded in 1971, the song was taken from Stewart's own experience. In a 2007 interview, Stewart recalled: "It's more or less a true story, about the first woman I had sex with, at the Beaulieu Jazz Festival."

Andy's back! 5-22-12